Morris Indicted In Flink Murder Case

Dale Morris, 31-year-old Montana cowboy, will be arraigned next Monday on a murder indictment in Hancock County Circuit Court at Bay St. Louis.

District Attorney Boyce Holleman said today that Morris was indicted for the last Nov. 23, murder of Charles Flink, a 39-year-old operator of a Hancock County novelty shop, located about four miles west of Bay St. Louis on U. S. Highway 90.

The indictment, Holleman said, was one of 14 returned Tuesday afternoon when the grand jury made its final report to Circuit Judge Leslie Grant.

SHOT PROBING NOISE

Flink was shot and fatally injured when he went to investigate a noise outside his home and was killed by two blasts from a small calibre pistol. He died almost immediately, as his slayer fled the scene in a vehicle, knocking down a small tree in the get-away.

Morris was apprehended the following day by New Orleans authorities at a motel there and was subsequently returned to Mississippi to await grand jury investigation of the case.

Holleman said an indictment was returned against C. E. Shine of Waveland, charging manslaughter in connection with the death of Edgar Moran Jr., 14, Bay St. Louis.

Young Moran, riding a bicycle, was fatally injured when struck by a hit-and-run automobile.

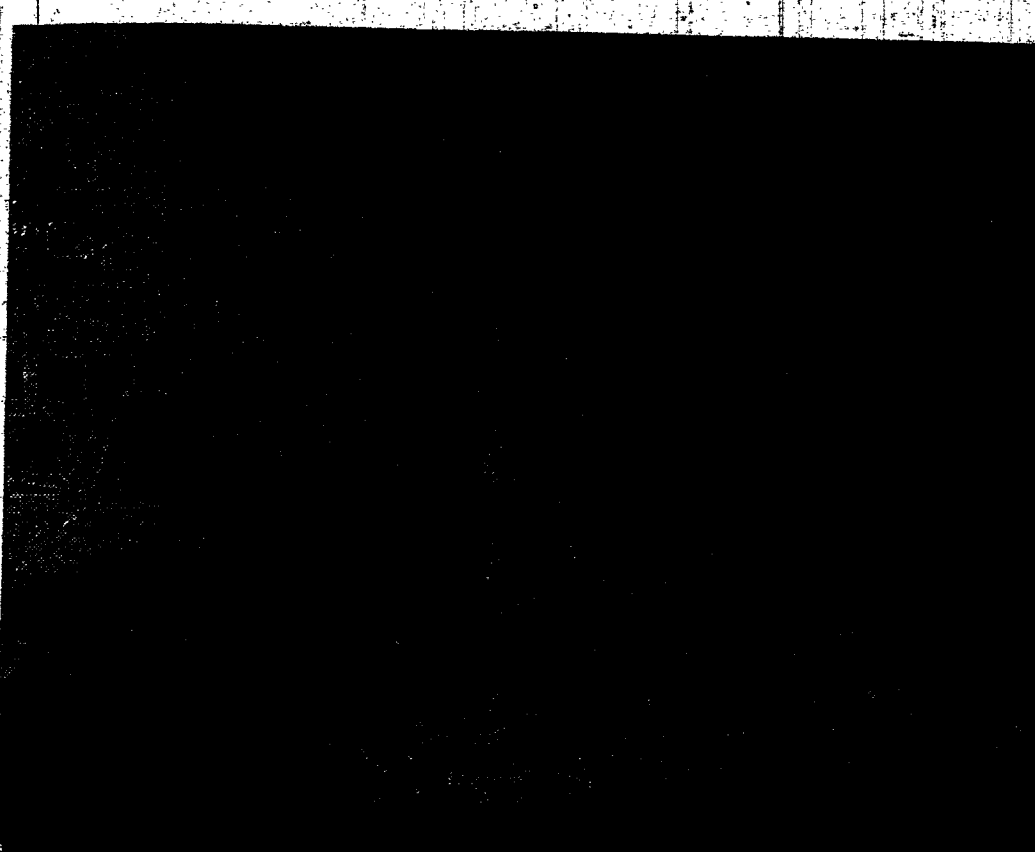

Walter Bridges was indicted for accessory after the fact in connection with the same case, the district attorney said.

The accident occurred last Nov. 21 on old Highway 90, near Bay St. Louis.

OTHER INDICTMENTS

Other indictments revealed by the district attorney included: Florence VanCourt, receiving stolen goods; Jerry Cooley, five counts of burglary; also assault and battery with intent.

James LaVerne Ivy two burglaries, grand larceny and escaping jail. Ivy fled the Hancock jail last weekend and was recaptured in New Orleans.

Mother lived up to her claim that the Old Grey Mare Is Still

What She Used To Be, when Tuesday night, the mothers defeated their daughters 27-20 in the annual Mother-Daughter basketball classic. Pat Murphy was referee, Phyllis Senzneau, Coach; Dottie Haas, Gen. Chairman; Toddy Jacobi and Katherine Matherne, Cheer Leaders. Twenty-two mothers participated.

HOSPITAL MEETING

Annual meeting of the King's Daughters and Sons Hospital will be held at the hospital at 9:30 a.m. Monday, April 9.

Hospital Cites Need of Funds

How the hospital can handle charity cases was the subject of a board meeting of the King's Daughters and Sons Hospital last Friday.

Dr. Shippen, particularly mater and baby death rate. He said the death rate for babies at birth was 6 in 1,000, but was 1 in 100 when the mother was hospitalized.

He declared local physicians co-operated 100 per cent, without compensation on charity cases.

The local hospital, he said, was unable to accept obstetrical and gynecological cases under state license due to a lack of facilities at the hospital.

One of the doctors cited a number of recent cases, mostly obstetrical, where local facilities were inadequate. He stressed need for pre-natal care, and said there was plenty of blood available, but no facilities for cross matching as there was no lab technician.

It was pointed out that the cost of a technician probably would be about $300 a month.

Pointing out the lack of equipment in the local hospital, a doctor cited the case of an obstetrical emergency which had to be transferred to another hospital for a Caesarian section.

Lack of facilities for colored patients also was cited.

Walter Gex, attorney for the hospital and member of the hospital board, said that local physicians came before the board of supervisors last year and stressed the need for extra Registered Nurses and a lab technician at the hospital. The Board of Supervisors agreed to increase its donation to $1,000.

Gex said the money was used for lab equipment and $250 per month for two registered nurses and $150 a month for a part time laboratory technician as requested by the doctors.

He said that the county since September had decreased their donation to $500 a month, but the additional personnel had been retained by the hospital. He pointed out that the personnel were necessary to qualify for state aid.

He asked that the Board give more to the hospital.

The Board pointed out that the donations were out in compliance with a State and Federal law, Sam L. Favre, attorney for the Board, said that under that law the Board was limited as to the amount they could give. However, he said, under a local and private law on the Coast the amount could be increased.

But the Board of Supervisors could offer little hope of a solution at the present time. As summed up by Mr. Kellar, "The money is just not available now."

Facilities within the county government structure to care for juvenile problems here were recommended by a Hancock County Grand Jury this week.

Expressing deep concern over an "alarming trend of juvenile misbehavior" among young people of the County, the jury said "numerous cases and complaints have been called to our attention."

They attributed a large part of the misconduct of teenagers to "laxity evidenced by parents and other adults having custody of the young people in permitting them to roam the streets at night."

"We also are alarmed," the Grand Jury's report said, "at the number of instances where those engaged in the sale of beer and wine are disregarding the law which prohibits the sale of these commodities to teenagers."

"We earnestly recommend, and it is our unanimous recommendation, that the Sheriff of Hancock County, the Constable and all law enforcement officers within our county strictly enforce the laws prohibiting the sale of these intoxicating beverages to minors."

They recommended that places of business which violate this law be closed or have their permit to engage in business revoked.

The jury also unanimously recommended that the laws of the State of Mississippi prohibiting gambling be "strictly enforced" in Hancock County, and that "no gambling of any kind whatsoever be tolerated."

"We believe this to be the best interest of all our people," they said, "and we deeply regret the unfavorable publicity which has been brought upon our great section of the State through the flagrant violation of the gambling laws by a few individuals seeking profit."

During the course of their investigation, the Grand Jury investigated 18 cases and returned 14 true indictments.

Among other recommendations, the Grand Jury urged that the Sheriff be given authority over persons hired by the Board of Supervisors to take care of janitorial services at the courthouse, and that the entire interior of the courthouse building downstairs be repainted and redecorated.

A. H. Gregory was foreman of the Grand Jury.

Seal Sales To Begin March 10

Annual Easter Seal campaign for funds of the Mississippi Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., will begin March 10 in Hancock County, according to Mrs. V. J. Piazza, campaign chairman for Hancock County.

Traditionally held at Easter time, the campaign is conducted through the mailing of Easter Seals to all homes in Mississippi.

This year's colorful Seal is bright blue and red. A white lily, symbol of the Easter Seal Society, and a crippled child are shown on the Seal which bears the words "Easter Seals Help Crippled Children."

Contributions from the 1956 Easter Seal Drive will be used in Mississippi to support rehabilitation centers, offering speech and physical therapy to handicapped boys and girls and adults.

Contributions provide summer camps and clinics for children with polio, cerebral palsy, trauma, cleft palates, for children who stutter or lisp, and for children with many other handicaps. Contributions also buy braces, corrective shoes and walkers.

Places Second As Orator

Bill Argus Jr., a junior at St. Stanislaus and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Argus of Bay St. Louis, was awarded a silver medal for placing second in the regional American Legion Oratorical Contest in Laurel.

ren who stutter or lisp, and for children with many other handicaps. Contributions also buy braces, corrective shoes and walkers.

Easter Seal donations continue the research and development program of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults so that new methods of preventing crippling and of aiding the crippled to lead normal lives can be found.

Over 90 per cent of the funds collected through the sale of Easter Seals will remain in Mississippi to help Mississippi's 125,000 handicapped children and adults.

"The need for Mississippi's crippled children is great," said Mrs. Piazza. "At present we can help only a handful of children. With adequate funds we can increase our program to help those thousands who have never been reached before."

"With everyone's help, thousands of boys and girls can be taught to lead normal useful lives. That is the purpose of the Easter Seals."

Red Cross contributions had reached $1800 by Wednesday of this week, representing about 33 per cent of the total quota. Fund Campaign Chairman Kenneth Pepperdine announced.

"The half way point of the campaign is at the end of this week, and we earnestly ask the help of each and every person in the county to help us reach our goal," Pepperdine said.

"Red Cross depends entirely on your generosity in order to meet emergencies when they arise. Surplus funds were almost wiped out last year by the unusual number and severity of natural disasters throughout the country."

"All of us here in Hancock County have seen and felt the disastrous effects of hurricanes and tornadoes. Red Cross was on the job here then. Won't you give now to make sure funds will be available in case of future emergencies? Let's count our blessings and pull together

Hospital To Give Audit

An audit of public funds given King's Daughters Hospital will be given to the public the second Monday in April, Walter Gex, member and legal counsel for the hospital board, told the ECHO this week.

A request for an audit was made at a meeting of the Board of Supervisors last week by Mrs. E. C. Samuel.

Mrs. Samuel, acting in the capacity of a taxpayer, pointed out that thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money are being donated to the hospital, and that the taxpayers were entitled to know how their money was being spent.

The Board of Supervisors has donated $19,510 to the hospital since October 1953.

Gex said Jaubert Fitch was doing the audit.

REV. McNAMEE TO OPEN SERIES OF REVIVALS

Why No Audit?

Last week a taxpayer of Hancock County appeared before the board of Supervisors of the County and requested the board to ask for an audit from the King's Daughters Hospital.

The request was made due to the fact that the Board of Supervisors has contributed large sums of taxpayers' money to the hospital since 1953. However, the hospital has failed in the past to recognize that the taxpayer public is entitled to know how such large sums of their money are spent.

The Board of Supervisors secured an opinion from its attorney to the effect that the Board could demand an audit, and in case the hospital refused to make public its audit, the Board could withdraw its monthly donation to the hospital.

A member of the hospital board of directors was present at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors and took issue with the right of the Board of Supervisors to require such an audit, stating that the Board made annual contributions to the American Red Cross and other similar organizations and did not require an audit from them.

Such an argument seems rather childish. The Red Cross is a national organization recognized for its service, nationally and locally, and it is our opinion they would give any individual contributor a statement of its receipts and disbursements should one be requested.

Besides, the Board of Supervisors is not donating any large sum of money to the Red Cross or any like organization that would compare with the donation it is making to the King's Daughters Hospital.

Since October 1953 the Board of Supervisors has donated $19,510 to the King's Daughters Hospital—an average of more than $1,080 a month. Yet with such a handsome gift of the taxpayers' money, the hospital is reluctant to give an audit of its receipts and disbursements.

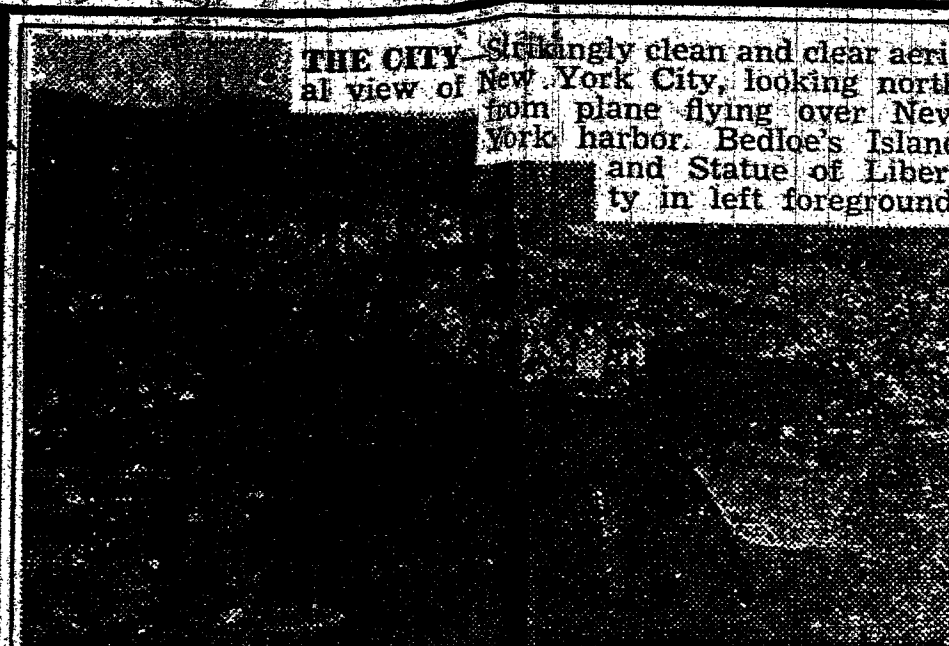

It might be pointed out that the Board of Supervisors has been making a monthly donation of $300 to the City-County Memorial Library, and the Board has not had to request an audit from them: the library board of directors have voluntarily given the Board of Supervisors and the City Council of Bay St. Louis a monthly audit. And the monthly amount received by the Library from the county is considerably smaller than the amount given the hospital.

It is our understanding that the Commission Council of Bay St. Louis is likewise contributing a monthly amount of $175 to King's Daughters Hospital. This also is taxpayers' money.

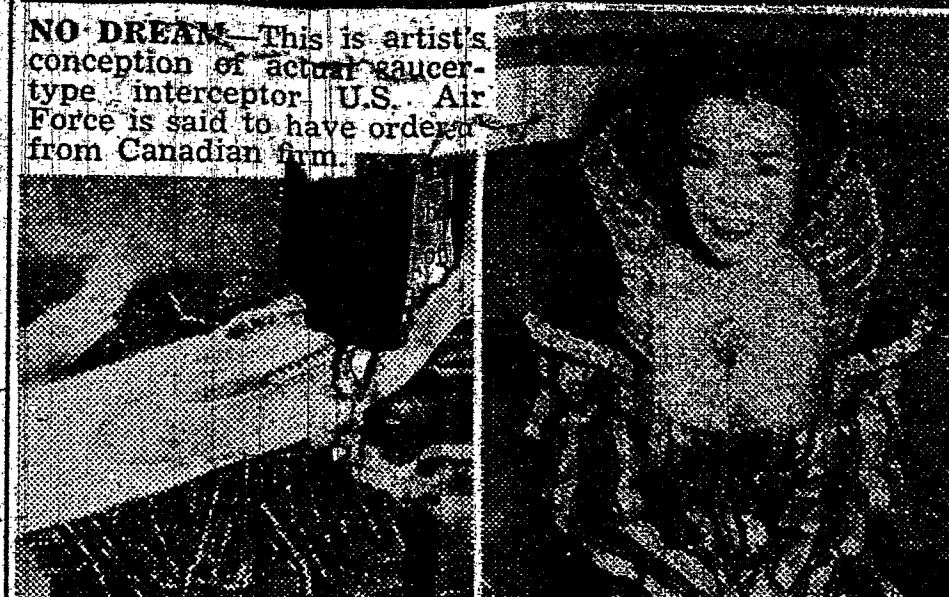

We are informed that the City Fathers are not making an audit from the hospital. We feel that such an audit should be made voluntarily—without a request having to be made.

The money being given monthly by the City and County to the King's Daughters Hospital, in our opinion, would go a long way toward owning one. As it is, the taxpayers are contributing monthly toward a hospital not owned by them and which is, apparently, very reluctant to give the taxpayers an audit.

Coring For Key 'Cuevas Sand'

In the one well Anasley field of Hancock county, Marshall R. Young is drilling below 10,500 feet in his closely watched confirmation try, the Baldwin et al No. 1, sec. 31-35-15W, after logging shows of gas in tight sand section at 10,242-48 feet.

The second try in the new field is expected to be cored for the "Cuevas sand" this week and is to be a key well for further drilling operations in the area. Located approximately a mile south of the discovery well, the Cuevas No. 1, sec. 30-38-15W, which is flowing oil and gas from a zone at 10,839-51 feet, the Baldwin venture should be at the coring point for the "Cuevas sand" in the next three days.

Approximately seven miles northwest, near the Louisiana State line, Willis Hughes has commenced operations to deepen his abandoned Weston Lumber Company No. 1, sec. 34-38-16W, to approximately 11,000 feet. The venture was abandoned last summer at total depth of 10,000 feet before the Anasley field was discovered. Operators plan to deepen and test the corresponding zone producing at Anasley.

It is reported that acreage near the Anasley area carries 1956 expiration dates with the possibility seen that the Hancock county area may see a number of wildcat ventures under way in the near future.

It is also reported that the Mississippi state mineral lease commission may be considering adopting the "block acreage" similar to Louisiana's for its unleased acreage in the Mississippi Sound.

The offshore area embraces some 900,000 acres. In 1951 Gulf Refining Company and Melben Oil Company secured leases on the entire area.

It is reported that currently 75,000 acres are still held by these operators, with the area located on the western side of the Sound.

The Anasley field in Hancock has increased interest in these offshore areas. The field is located less than five miles from Mississippi Sound waters.

LOCAL BANKS TO CLOSE SAT.

Merchants Banks and Trust Co. and Hancock Banks along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, including the Bay St. Louis office, will begin observing Saturday closing April 7 along with seven other coastal banks.

It was also announced that six holidays will be observed by the 12 banks: New Year's Day, Mardi Gras Day (Bay St. Louis to Biloxi), Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

Speaking of generals—and who was—but anyway, speaking of generals, Thursday marked the anniversary of the birth-date of General Andrew Jackson, bane of the British and scourge of the Seminole.

And speaking of colds, and who isn't, it was this redoubtable general who, according to the faithful Rachel, "kicked the kivers off and kotched a cold." Evidently there's been quiet a bit of kiver kicking around here lately, to listen to the shuffles and sneezes.

Which reminds me, we shall soon be coming into the vernal equinox—vernal meaning spring and equinox meaning, I don't know what I'm talking about—on account of I don't know off hand just what equinox does mean—so since next issue coincides with said date of equinox, March 21, I'll look it up and come prepared for a little chit chat about it, no doubt.

Oh, I couldn't stand it and had to stop and look it up. It means when the earth's axis is at right angles to the sun. Uh hum. That's what I get for nosing into things. Seems there's two equinoxes too. Just won't let well enough alone. But, not counting all the confusing statistics about degrees, angles etc., I did find out that they call it equinox because at that exact time day and night are equal all over the earth. And that's real nice to know.

Mad Merriment Marks Little Theatre Play

By VICKI L. HILL

Many of you remember "The Idle Jests" in which "Old Skroob" said: "Mad sire, ah, yes—mad indeed, but observe how they light up the sky." From this observation comes the title for the forthcoming presentation of the Bay St. Little Theatre, "Light Up The Sky."

Mad, indeed are the characters in this hilarious play, which is cleverly written to include the various phases of human nature involved in theatrical life behind the scenes.

"There is a character by whom everyone is addressed affectionately, if a little insincerely, as "dah-ling"; there is Irene's mother, "Stella", who wears her years of following one-night stands behind her daughter like a gusty, slightly tarnished halo. Stella has developed a certain crust through elbowing with the show world, but has never lost either her dry wit or her quick repartee.

There is "Frances, a glittering example of the show-girl, who has climbed the ladder of success through the sheer pull of her own weight and the sharpness of her own tongue. Almost every line she has draws a laugh so her brittle-ness is not without its merits.

There are many more equally interesting characters in this wonderful entertainment. To top it all the scene is built around a swank suite at the Ritz-Carlton. To this writer's notion nothing adds to the success of a play more than a plush, sophisticated setting, adding glamour to the make-believe.

The play is being prepared for early April presentation and

KILLS BROTHER IN FAMILY QUARREL OVER PROPERTY

A family quarrel over the rights to property given their father led to the fatal shooting of Harold E. Pigot, 39, by his brother Toxie Pigot, 44, in Piquette Saturday.

The shooting allegedly grew out of a quarrel over the brothers' property, given to them by their father, Louis Pigot, and over timber on the lands.

Deputies of Pearl River County Sheriff Osborn Moody said the shooting occurred about seven miles southeast of Piquette on a right-of-way between the lands of Harold and another brother, Ozzie Pigot.

According to the officers, Harold had been setting fence posts and clearing land along the right-of-way by burning off bushes and grass when the fire spread to either side of the right-of-way.

Louis Pigot, the father, had reserved timber rights to the lands when he gave the brothers their 40 acres each, and Toxie, the officers said, began to bicker with Harold over the burning of the timber.

County deputies said the shooting was witnessed by Charles Mitchell, a neighbor of the brothers, and Garland Burge, a brother-in-law.

The two said Toxie and Harold began to argue and Toxie drew a .32-caliber, sub-nosed revolver and fired four times, three of the bullets hitting Harold. They said Harold was not armed and was standing in the right-of-way.

At an inquest by coroner Weston Lott it was stated that Harold died of shotgun wounds of the right arm, right chest and lower abdomen "at the hands of Toxie Pigot."

Toxie Pigot, who, officers say, has admitted the shooting, was transferred from the Piquette jail to the Pearl River county jail in Poplarville to await a preliminary hearing.

Pigot is survived by his widow, one daughter, Barbara, 6; a son, Steve, 4; one sister, four brothers and his parents.

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. - "I'm going to homestead this spot... right here if I come out to Elliot's Beach again," Mississippian "Rebel" platoon member Arthur J. Mauffray says as he picks the spot.

While training here at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Mauffray made his second trek to the well-known bivouac area, and again pitched a shelter tent, dug a drainage ditch, and attended courses in field sanitation and defense against chemical warfare.

Two years ago, as a member of the 1st Armored Amphibious Tractor Company, Marine Corps Reserve, Gulfport, Miss., he came here for two weeks of summer training and bivouaced at Elliot's Beach.

"I'd come here last year except that the company went to Camp Lejeune," the Marine reservist explained. Mauffray went on to say that the only reason he's going through recruit training is that while a member of the reserve he never volunteered for the ten-week course.

"Each time I come out here I learn something new but one thing never changes... we sleep in tents, Mauffray concluded. He is the son of Ulma Mauffray of Gloster, Miss.

What Industry Employs Over 16,200 Mississippians?

The beer industry employs 16,200 people. This many Mississippians are carried on payrolls of the State's 57 wholesalers and more than 5,000 retailers. Wholesalers and retailers in the legally regulated beer industry have an investment of over $28 million in Mississippi, including buildings, fixtures, trucks and equipment.

Mississippi's tax on beer yields $4 million of the $5 million set aside from general funds each year for rural road construction. This tax load is one of the highest in the nation, but largely through public acceptance of legally regulated beer—as the beverage of moderation—beer is now the 4th largest taxpayer in Mississippi.

2 out of 3 American families serve beer today, survey records show. For beer is the kind of moderate, sensible beverage Americans enjoy as a part of pleasant living. Nowadays the greatest part of all beer sales are for home use.
